My mistake. Schedule 319 should be Schedule 302. Please file Schedule 302 to cover the construction permit. Dale Bickel dale.bickel@fcc.gov

On November 7, 2019, you filed a "legal STA" request (file number BLSTA-20191107AAH. That STA advised that KBCC had completed construction in accordance with its construction permit (file number 0000092707 – the incorrect file number was referenced in your letter). The STA request advised that that the station had commenced program test operations, as it is entitled to do under Section 73.1620 of the FCC's rules.

The station should have followed up within 10 days by filing a license application on FCC Schedule 319. As of today, that license application has not been filed. I'm sending this e-mail to ask you to do that as soon as possible. Instructions for electronically filing the license application to cover construction permit 0000092707 are available on the FCC's web site at <https://www.fcc.gov/media/radio/lms-help-center>. This should not be a difficult process, but it is necessary so that we can license your current operation.

Separately, today the FCC granted KBCC's renewal of license (file number 0000850803, as amended). That however, does not avoid the need to file FCC Schedule 319, to cover the construction permit.

The legal STA IS DISMISSED, since there is nothing to grant in it. Once more, please file the Schedule 319 as soon as possible (within 10 days, preferably).
